New TV Show 'Frybread' Looking for Actors

MESA, ARIZONA, USA — The hilarious and award winning feature film More Than Frybread will morph into a new television series called Frybread. The pilot episode From the Ashes will be produced by Holt Hamilton Films in October of this year. Holt Hamilton Films also produced hit movies Turquoise Rose and Legends from the Sky.

The television show will follow Donathon Littlehair, the newly appointed president of the fictional World Wide Frybread Association, as he struggles to fight for the rights of frybread and all frybread artists around the world. The show will feature many of the original actors from the movie's lineup including Joe Washington, Ernest Tosie III, Teresa Choyguha, Jennifer Joseph and James Bilagody. The pilot episode plans to introduce new characters into the sizzling and pretentious frybread world.

One of the characters writer/director Holt Hamilton is casting for, is “a strong female named Amber. She's hired to be President Littlehair's assistant, but doesn't always follow her boss's orders and usually is found better off for it.” Hamilton went on to say, “We are looking for a few other supporting actors that will play through the series. We also are excited to have lots of opportunities for single episode roles as well. Native film is growing stronger and we are thankful to be a part of it.”

The show hopes to pick up interest from local and national television outlets and plans on shooting 13 half hour episodes for a full first season. The majority of filming will take place in Arizona and New Mexico, but will also allow for portions of various episodes to be filmed across Native country in the United States and Canada. “There are so many beautiful lands and people across North America, that I'm excited a show like this will allow us to highlight many never before seen places and people in a unique and special way on the little screen.” stated Hamilton.

Holt Hamilton Films is based out of Mesa, Arizona and will be holding online auditions where anyone around the world may apply with little expense.
