

NEWS RELEASE

Media Contact:

Travis Holt Hamilton
 travis@holthamilton.com
 602.769.7681
 www.HoltHamilton.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

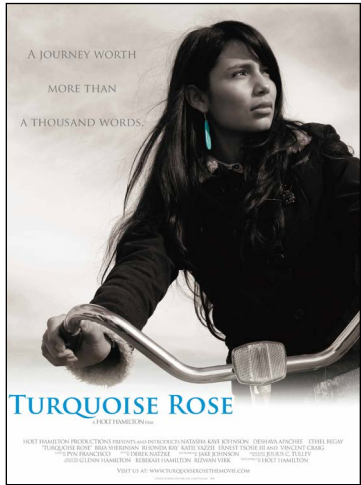

Holt Hamilton offers free movies during November

Viewers can watch online for free

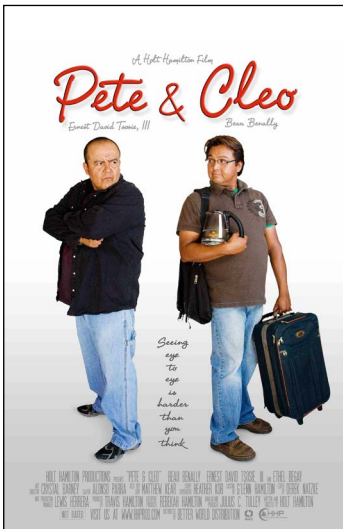

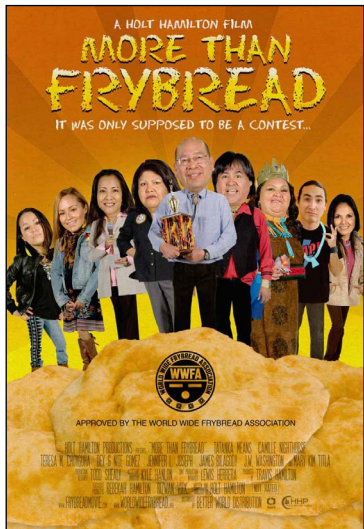

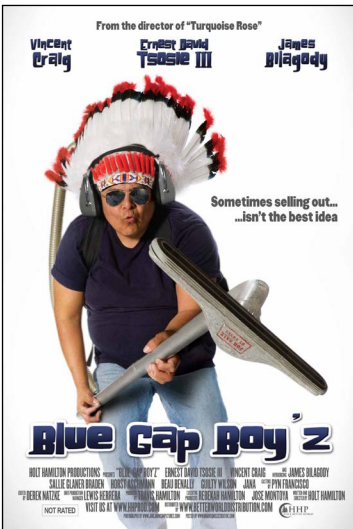

MESA, Ariz. – In commemoration of Native American Heritage Month, and in advance of its next feature-length film, Holt Hamilton Films is offering free screenings of a selection of films.

Written and directed by Travis Holt Hamilton, these feature-length films span the genres of drama, comedy, mockumentary and science fiction—all steeped in Native American culture and showcasing the talent of Native actors. Films will be released online every Friday throughout November 2016.

“Our goal is to release one movie per week to allow people who haven’t seen our films to enjoy them and share them with others,” Hamilton said. “In the spirit of the season, we want to show our fans how thankful we are for them by offering this special gift. Mark your calendars, because every week another film will go up.”

To watch the films, join the mailing list at www.HoltHamilton.com to get email updates when films become available. You can also visit the website every Friday for a unique Vimeo link and password or follow Holt Hamilton Films on Facebook, Twitter or Instagram for updates and access to the online films. Don’t forget to share with your friends!

About Holt Hamilton Films:

Holt Hamilton Films, based in Mesa, Ariz., specializes in contemporary Native American films that feature a mixture of veteran actors and up-and-coming Native talent. Its films include Turquoise Rose (2007), Blue Gap Boyz (2008), Pete & Cleo (2010), More Than Frybread (2012) and Legends from the Sky (2015). For more information, visit www.HoltHamilton.com